Building an Indian Innovation Ecosystem

- Raghunath marshalkar.

Innovation In India

There are many obstacles in India for innovation. Innovation is not a simple and easy thing in India. There are many reasons for this. There is no good education in India. There are not many researchers in India. There are four thousand six hundred and twenty eight (4628) researchers per one million in America. There are five thousand three hundred (5300) researchers in Japan, But there are only one hundred and nineteen (119) researches per one million in India. This a very bad and sad thing in India. There are not good laws about new creation, Nobody gives help to clever students to do research. Our government and officers and staff members are selfish and care less and lazy.

No Man is An Island

- Mino0 Masani

The young generation of today is not acquainted with the name Mino Masani. But the old generation know him as a sober pensandlit. He was a freedom fighter as well as a politic writer. His book 'Our India' proved to be the best selling book of its time. The full name of Mino Masani was ~~Minocher Rustom Masani~~ but this freedom fighter who enjoyed a long life of 85 years (1905-1998) was popularly known as ~~Mino~~ Masani. He was the under member of Congress Socialist Party along with J. P. Narayan and Achyut Patwardhan. After the political difference with Pt. Jawahar Lal Nehru he established this party but in a very short life he favoured Russia. Later he was an active member of Swatantra Party. He was elected from Rajkot Gujarat for the first three Lok Sabha tenures.

The article is a good example of how the theme of the article should be treated in a very scientific manner.

Khadi

- M. K. Gandhi

Mohatma Gandhi the mastermind behind the unified protest of Indians the British rule was not only a patriot He was a social servant. a visionary a worker who was eager to server the down-trodden He made the life of the British rulers difficult by using two tools to leave the land. we need not write much about him in this introduction because his memory is still young on the minds of the Indians.

The British would mockingly ask 'Do you hope to win freedom by using khaddar and using spinning wheel?'

We are going to study a small speech by him in most of his speeches and lectures he use to introduce khadi and spinning wheel he in most of his speeches because this is the inspiration that God has given him.

The Mettle of Soldiers

- R. Singh

R. Singh is one of the budding Indian poets writing in English. The present poem was published very recently in a magazine named Active May 2015 issue. The poem is about a soldier who is guarding the border of India. The moment we think of a soldier, some things strike our mind. Let us note some of them.

- ① His uniform and the rifle in his hand.
- ② His straight walk and his vow to protect his motherland.
- ③ His courage, fearless and willingness to suffer long separation from family.
- ④ His love and devotion to his motherland and his cause.

There is no reason why.

There is only to do and die.

Let us see what the poet, R. Singh has to say about the soldier.

The Banyan Tree

- Rabindranath Tagor.

The Banyan tree. is a poem by Rabindranath Tagor. The poem is addressed shaggy headed the Banyan tree is standing on the bank of the pond. The little child use to seat in the window. He use to observe that the mamon would fill there jars in the pond and the hugh (color) black shado of the Banyan tree on the water of the pond.

The poet (little child) wanted to be the wind and blow through rustting branches. He also wanted to be the shado of the Banyan tree wich lenghen with the day on the top most bronch. He finally longed to be to ducks to floet amongt wids and shadoes.
